4. Competitor landscape (for problem 9)

Indicative German OTC / pharmacy competitor set across the brand's categories. Positioning notes are starting hypotheses, not verified market data.

Competitor	Owner / group	Overlaps in	Positioning angle
Gehwol	Eduard Gerlach	Feet (premium)	Professional/podiatry foot care
Scholl	Reckitt	Feet	Mass-market foot care, devices
Allpresan	Neubourg Skin Care	Feet (urea foam)	Foam-format dry/diabetic feet
Kneipp	Kneipp	Feet, legs, bath	Natural wellness, herbal baths
tetesept	Merz	Feet, bath	Drugstore wellness / bath
Hansaplast Foot Expert	Beiersdorf	Feet	Mass-market, devices & creams
Doppelherz	Queisser Pharma	Legs (vein), joints	Supplements + topicals
Voltaren / proff	GSK / Dr. Theiss	Muscles & joints	OTC pain (diclofenac)
Pernaton	Gattlen Tritec	Joints	Green-lipped mussel positioning
Retterspitz / Pferdesalbe brands	Various	Muscles	Traditional herbal rubs

White-space hypotheses to feed the gap-analysis agent (validate, don't assume): men-targeted recovery line; cooling sports-team sprays vs. Scholl/Hansaplast; subscription/refill for repeat foot-care SKUs; sustainability-forward packaging messaging; diabetic-foot specialist sub-brand; app/QR usage guidance.

5. Per-problem briefs

Problem 6 — Marketing content / filmmaker agent

Goal: produce studio-quality short-form vertical reels that respect TikTok / Instagram safe zones (UI/overlay margins). Feature products from §2–3 above.

- Hero SKUs for video: Mobil Gel, Mobil Eisspray akut (sport), 5in1 Beinlotion (summer legs), Sole Fußbad & Fuß Butter (winter wellness), Hornhaut Entferner Maske (before/after).
- Format: 1080×1920 (9:16). Safe-zone working margins (verify vs. current platform specs): keep text/logos ~140 px from top, ~480–600 px from bottom (caption/CTA bar), ~120–180 px from the right edge (action icons), ~40 px left. Centre the 'message-safe' band.
- Content angles: ritual/ASMR foot bath; 15-sec post-workout recovery; 'heavy legs after a shift' relatable hook; ingredient-origin story (Allgäu plantation → bottle).
- Guardrails: these are cosmetics, not drugs — avoid medical-cure claims; keep within German Heilmittelwerbegesetz (HWG) advertising limits.

Problem 7 — Target-group & customer analytics agent

- Use the segment + season columns in §3 as labels. Build behaviour patterns on the (to-be-generated) transactions log: RFM, season-of-purchase, category affinity (feet vs. muscle buyers).
- Timing signals: sandal-season spike for callus SKUs (Mar–Jun); winter for warming/bath SKUs; sport calendar for Mobil/Eisspray.
- Output = targeting signals: which segment × SKU × send-window, then a post-campaign sales-lift measurement (treatment vs. control).

Problem 8 — Dynamic pricing agent

- External signals to wire in: weather (heat → leg/cooling gels; cold → warming/bath), religious/seasonal events (Christmas gifting, Ramadan, Father's Day for men's SKUs), football fixtures (matchday → Mobil Eisspray / recovery near venues), supply-chain shortages on key actives → margin protection.
- Use the Price € column as the base/anchor price; model a permitted band (e.g. ±12%).
- Guardrails: pharmacy pricing/RPM rules, no price gouging on health items, fairness floor/ceiling, and logged rationale per price change (auditability).

Problem 9 — Competitive product-gap analysis agent

- Inputs: the product set (§2–3) vs. the competitor matrix (§4).
- Method: map both onto a need × format grid (need: callus, dry skin, cold feet, heavy legs, spider veins, muscle pain, joint, recovery; format: cream, gel, spray, bath, foam, balm, device).
- Surface cells where competitors are present and Allgäuer is absent → white-space candidates for own-brand/similar products. Rank by category size × margin × brand-fit.
